PREFACE

The Henry Shelton Sanford Papers are the property of the City of Sanford, Florida. This town, located in central Florida, was founded in the 1870's by the man for whom it was named. He was a native of Derby, Connecticut, where his ancestral home still stands. Members of Henry S. Sanford's family, living in Connecticut, stored his papers in the Connecticut Historical Society, some time after the death of Mrs. Sanford in 1901. She had survived her husband ten years. In her will, Mrs. Sanford requested her children to erect a Memorial Library in Sanford, if possible, to house the books and papers of her husband. About 1941 a committee was appointed in this town under the auspices of the Daughters of the American Revolution for the purpose of complying with this request. In 1957 this Memorial Library was completed and the books and furnishings from the library in the Sanford Home in Derby, Connecticut, were sent to Florida.

Later, through the auspices of Mr. Gifford Cochran, a member of the Florida Committee, and through the courtesy of Mr. Thompson R. Harlow, President of the Connecticut Historical Society, the papers were shipped to Florida and for a time, until they could be organized and arranged, were stored in the Mills Memorial Library of Rollins College.

In May 1959 the papers were loaned to the Tennessee State Library and Archives for processing and microfilming. They will be permanently housed in the General Sanford Memorial Library. A microfilm copy will be retained by the Manuscript Section of the Tennessee State Library and Archives.

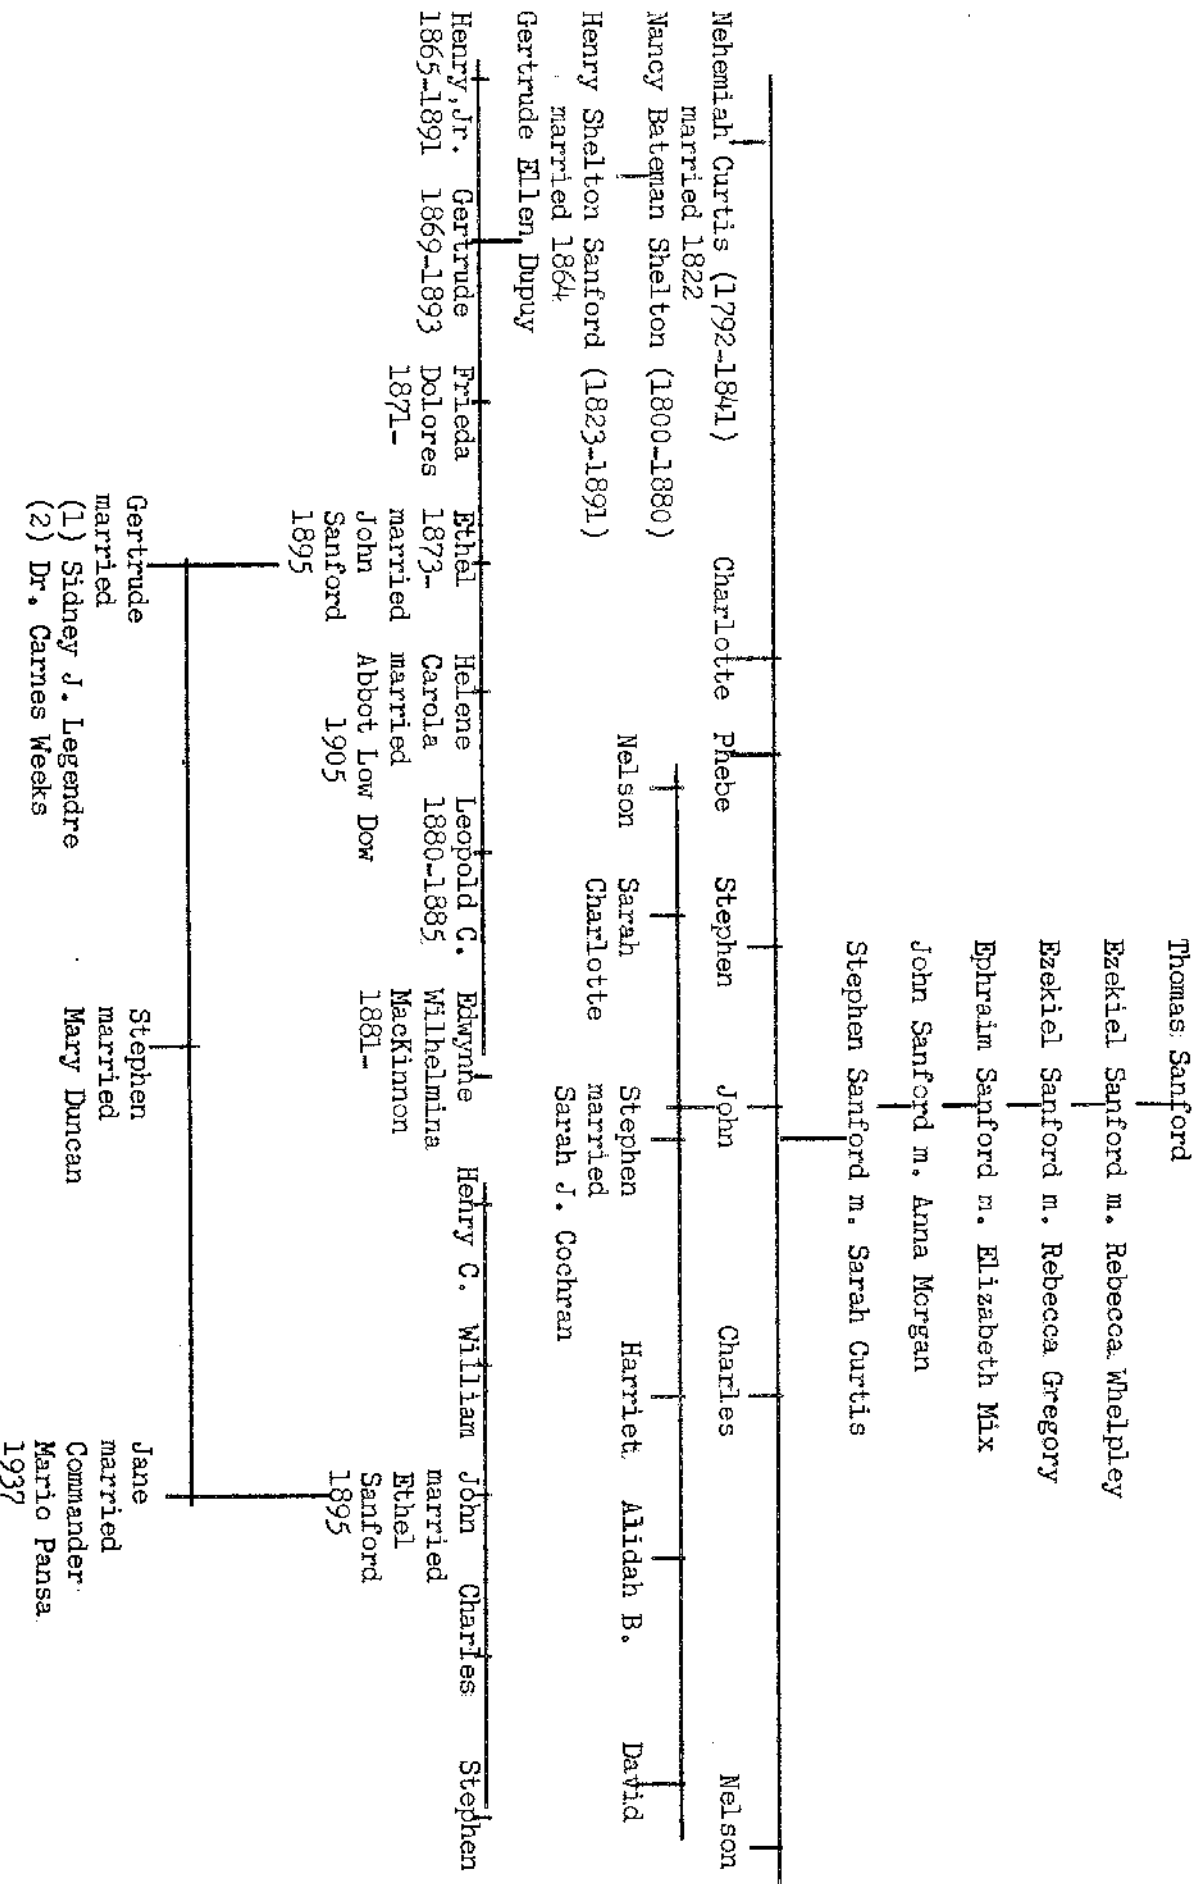

The processing of these papers has been done by history graduate students and several other well-qualified persons working under the direction of the Manuscript Section. They have been classified under subject headings, corresponding to the various phases of Henry Sanford's career, retaining his "live files" as nearly as possible. An over-all scope and content note has been made giving a brief summary of the contents of the papers.

This Register is made for use as a finding aid or guide. It does not dispense with the necessity for research but is intended to aid researchers as well as members of the library staff and also to furnish information necessary for cataloging. A genealogical chart, of the Sanford and Shelton families has been made, based on information obtained from the papers, and is attached to the Register. Also an index has been made for all correspondents whose papers seemed to warrant separate treatment.

Scope and Content Note

Henry Shelton Sanford Papers 1769-1901

This collection of papers containing approximately fifty thousand items covers a span of years beginning in 1569 and ending in 1901. They are composed of correspondence, diaries, biographical and genealogical data, legal documents, briefs, speeches, articles, accounts, and business memoranda, in the fields of Latin American, European, African, and United States history. There are about 1000 items which deal with the business interests of Henry Sanford's father, Nehemiah Curtis Sanford, who owned a tack factory in Derby, Connecticut, and also had large holdings in Michigan lands. Henry took over his father's business at his death in 1841 and continued to enlarge and add other interests to those of his father. The accounts and business correspondence for Henry's interests compose 3000 items. By 1869 a distant kinsman, William Shelton, warned Henry against so much expansion. He wrote, "No man can manage a plantation in Louisiana, shipbuilding in Maine and other remotely situated points of business without being ruined. It is a simple question of tune." This proved to be a prophetic statement for Henry did run into financial difficulties and after his death Mrs. Sanford was forced to sacrifice some of her husband's holdings in order to save others.

Two thousand items deal with Sanford's schooling both in the United States and abroad and his correspondence and diaries while serving as Secretary for the American Legations at St. Petersburg, Frankfurt, and Paris. He was Charge D'affaires at Paris for one year 1853-1854. These diaries cover one of the most critical eras of European history—the period of German unification and the seizure of power by Napoleon III. Sanford records many interesting details of these revolutions in France and Germany. There are also diaries kept during trips to Smyrna, Central and South America, and Michigan, including a hunting trip into the country west of the Mississippi in the 1840's. They contain interesting accounts of this sparsely populated area and the dangers encountered by travelers during this early period.

In 1854 Sanford gave up his position as Charge' d'affaires at Paris and returned to the United States. In January 1855 he took over the Aves Island case for his Uncle Philo S. Shelton. Approximately 3000 items make up this portion of the papers which is centered upon the Venezuelan government's seizure in 1854 of the Aves Island. This small island possessing large quantities of the rich fertilizer, guano, was located about three hundred miles from the coast of Venezuela. Philo Shelton had sent employees to dig the fertilizer and load his ships. They built houses and occupied the island for about six months before they were expelled by Venezuelan troops. Efforts to settle the claim against Venezuela occupied much of Sanford's time for the rest of his life, and he was never completely satisfied with the settlement. There was, however, one important result of this case. The United States set forth the "Doctrine of Sovereignty of the United States over Derelict Islands." The adoption as a policy of this doctrine in the relations of the United States with her Hispanic American neighbors was one of the far reaching results of this litigation. The most important correspondents in the Aves, Island portion of the papers include John Appleton, Guzman Blanco, Lewis Cass, E. D. Culver, Charles Eames, John Me Foster, Jacinto Gutierrez, James S. Mackie, W. L. Marcy, H. Nadal, Jose A. Paes, A. Parra, A. M. G. Pennington, R. Phelps, G. H. Preston, Luis Renshaw, Jose M. Rojas, Philo S. Shelton, E. G. Tilton, W. H. Trescot, E. A. Turpin, Charles Wilkes, and several business firms.

About 2000 items deal with Sanford's missions to Colombia, Venezuela, Panama, and Honduras in the years 1857 – 1860 on behalf of the interests of United States citizens in those countries. One large United States company had sold arms and munitions to the Colombian government and had been unable to obtain settlement for them; another group had suffered from damages to the Panama Railroad by the revolutionaries and were demanding payment for their losses; and the third group of citizens, interested in building the Honduras Interoceanic Railroad, deputized Sanford to organize a survey and arrange for the construction of the road. The correspondents for these Central and South American projects are represented by W. H. Aspinwall, Henry Birchall, G. C. Crane, John M. Dow, Amory Edwards, Horatio Freeman, G. R. Gliddon, David Hadley, G. Holland, W. N. Jeffers, J. H. Jenney, Dr. J. N. Livingston, Albert Mathieu, C. Michelsen, G. M. Totten, J. C. Trautwine, and P. W. Turney.

The Civil War portion of the papers, covering the period when Sanford was Minister to Belgium in charge of Secret Service and United States fiscal agent, make up another 2000 items. In his position as fiscal agent, Sanford purchased arms, munitions, blankets, cloth, and saltpetre for the United States. The correspondence, vouchers, insurance, and accounts dealing with his purchases as well as reports of his Secret Service activities, and his private and official dispatches to W. H. Seward are among these papers. The correspondents dealing with Civil War subjects are H. B. Anthony, James H. Anderson, Joseph Antoni, W. S. Bailey, John Bigelow, N. M. Beckwith, R. S. Chilton, Cassius M. Clay, A. W. Crawford, Thomas H. Dudley, Louis A. Dochez, E. G. Eastman, J. B. Fitzpatrick (Bishop of Boston), L. F. S. Foster, Aaron Goodrich, W. Hunter, Frederick Krupp, James S. Mackie, F. H. Morse, Horatio J. Perry, Detective Pollaky and his associates, J. O. Putnam, G. C. Ripley, George Sauer, B. W. Saunders, George Schuyler, William H. Seward, Gilead Smith, George P. Smith, Truman Smith, Marshall Talbot, W. T. M. Torrens, W. H. Trescot, W. S. Underwood, W. M. Walker, Thurlow Weed, W. G. Wainwright, and others.

After the Civil War, Sanford continued to serve as Minister to Belgium until 1869. Some 5000 items deal with a variety of business enterprises during this period. There is much correspondence concerning certain patents, the Suez Ship Railroad, electro-mechanical development schemes, railroads and Western lands, the Barnwell Island cotton plantation, the Oakley sugar plantation, and the Arkansas zinc venture. Certain business associates were partners of Sanford in several of these ventures. They were James S. Mackie, Jules Levita, Aaron Goodrich, E. G. Eastman, and Alex Trippel. Alex Trippel handled almost all of Sanford's business involving patents and the Arkansas zinc business. Other correspondents in these projects are certain European inventors, Aerts, Haeck, Roberts, and Sturrock. The electro-mechanical development schemes and the Suez Ship Railroad project were handled by James M. Ormes, S. Schofield, and G. Buckley of the English firm, Schofield, Ormes and Buckley. The agents in charge of the Barnwell Island cotton plantation, located off the coast of South Carolina, were J. W. Patterson, J. M. Shackelford, Stuart Middleton, and W. H. Trescot.

Oakley sugar plantation in Louisiana was purchased by Sanford and his brother-in-law, S. B. Rogers, in January 1869 for $24,000. It originally contained approximately 500 acres but additional lands were purchased over the years. Rogers was unable to provide his share of the funds necessary for improvements and operating expenses, and Sanford eventually became sole owner of the Oakley plantation. In later years Oakley became a liability, and it was sold in 1889 for $20,000. The most significant correspondents concerned with this project were S. B. Rogers and M. L. Williams, successive managers of the plantation, and B. Maes, who became bookkeeper for the plantation and manager of the Oakley store.

In 1870 the Sanford Grant containing 23 Square miles of land in central Florida was purchased for 30 cents per acre and from time to time other large acreages were added to this original grant. Another 5000 items deal with St. Gertrude's Orange Grove, the Belair Experiment Station, and the Florida Land and Colonization Society. The development of the Florida lands brought Sanford many labor difficulties. In an effort to settle his labor problems he brought one hundred Swedish immigrant workmen to Florida. They founded the town of New Upsala. The papers dealing with Belair, St. Gertrude's and the Swedish immigration contain correspondence from Henry L. DeForest, G. H. DuPont, George B. Forrester, Eleazer K. Foster, John J. Foulkrod, Josef Henderson, W. A. Henschen, Donald Houston, T. F. Huggins, James E. Ingraham, John Millar, Rev. Lyman Phelps, H. B. Whipple, and John Wennstrum. The Land and Colonization Company organized in 1880 was primarily British owned. Its capital holdings consisted of over 100,000 acres in the counties of Brevard, Hernando, Hillsborough, Manatee, Marion, Monroe, Polk, and Sumter. The two largest stockholders in this company were Sanford and the Scotchman, William MacKinnon. The most important correspondents for this portion of the Florida papers are William MacKinnon, A. W. Macfarlane, Frederic H. Rand, B. F. Stevens, E. R. Trafford, and Gerald Waller. The political interests of Sanford in Florida and his efforts to establish the Republican Party on a more solid conservative white foundation is a subject dealt with in the papers.

In 1876 Sanford was a delegate of the American Geographical Society to a conference called by King Leopold II of Belgium. The conference convened at the King's palace in Brussels and the African International Association was organized with the philanthropic purposes, according to Sanford, of opening up equatorial Africa to civilizing influences and for the ultimate suppression of the slave trade. Sanford was made a member of the executive committee, and it was the beginning of one of his most important services. He worked with Senators John Tyler Morgan of Alabama and R. L. Gibson of Louisiana in an effort to put a measure through Congress setting forth inducements of lands and favorable trade agreements to American Negroes who would migrate to Africa for the purpose of helping to civilize the natives. It was believed the American Negro would be more acceptable to the African as a civilizing influence than the white man. Henry Morton Stanley worked with the African International Exploring Expedition and together they were able in four years beginning in 1878 to set up five stations along the Congo manned by one hundred and fifty European and American officials and supplied by four steamers. Five hundred treaties had been made with the native chiefs, and Leopold had spent $10,000,000 in this work. In November 1884, the Berlin Conference was held and Sanford and Stanley spent the winter in Berlin working with the United States Minister, John A. Kasson, to make secure with the great European powers certain concessions. The Independent State of the Congo with Leopold II as its sovereign was the outcome. In June 1886 the Sanford Exploring Expedition was sent out in the interest of trade, and two steamers, the "Florida" and the "New York" were carried in sections by 1500 porters around the cataracts to the Upper Congo and there reassembled. Sanford was greatly disappointed that he could get no response from American business interests in his Congo project, and the flags of the two steamers were eventually replaced by those of European countries. The Sanford Exploring Expedition was liquidated in 1888 and in its place the Belgian Anonymous Society was established as a purely commercial company. The most significant correspondents for the African part of the papers are H. P. Bailey, Chatrobe Bateman, James G. Blaine, Cambier, F. F. Carter, F. DeWinton, Frederick T. Frelinghuysen, Baron Greindl, George Grenfell, E. J. Glave, Cam Janssen, John A. Kasson, J. B. Latrobe, Amos A. Lawrence, Leopold II (through the agency of Barons Borchgrave, E. Beyens, and DeVaux), Jules Levita, Montefiore-Levi, John Tyler Morgan, W. G. Parmenter, Capt. Popelin, A. Rabaud, Henry Morton Stanley, Col. M. Strauch, A. B. Swinburne, E. H. Taunt, Edwin Terrell, Capt. Albert Thys, W. P. Tisdell, A. J. Wauters, T. Wauters, and others. In 1890 Sanford was sent by the United States as Plenipotentiary and Envoy Extraordinary to the Anti-Slavery conference held in Brussels. The papers dealing with all of Sanford's activities in Africa are composed of approximately 5000 items.

There are about 5000 items of family papers containing the correspondence of Sanford's mother, father, aunts, uncles, cousins, and children. In addition to the family letters written to Sanford there are a large number of letters written by friends of the family to his mother, father, aunts, and uncles which are a part of the collection. There are letters from the Episcopal Bishop, Philander Chase, who was one of the founders of Kenyon College, at first called Jubilee College. Another 5000 items are contained in Mrs. Sanford's correspondence with her husband, son, daughters, friends, and other relatives. About 1000 items make up Sanford's own drafts of his letters, his writings on the penal codes, postal regulations, the German Educational System and some of his speeches. These drafts are in addition to those which are incorporated under the various subject headings. There are six boxes of letterbooks containing copies of Sanford's letters and dispatches.

The Special correspondence, separated because of the prominence of the correspondent as well as the volume of letters, is composed of approximately 8000 items. It contains references to all of the various categories in the collection. An index of all the correspondents who have thus been separated is attached. It includes the number of letters for each correspondent, the inclusive dates of the letters, and an identification of the writers, if possible.

There are about 300 items dealing with art and artists. Among the artists who corresponded with Sanford are George Catlin, De Haas (Dutch animal painter), Scheyer (German animal painter), Gudin, and Van Gogh. The social correspondence composed of invitations, social notes, letters of introduction, and some important autographs, together with the general correspondence in English, French, German, Italian, and Spanish, and the general memoranda, memorabilia, programs, notices and 20 maps make up the remaining 5000 items.

Biographical Note

- 1823, June 15 Henry Shelton Sanford born in Woodbury, Connecticut; son of Nehemiah Curtis and Nancy Bateman Shelton Sanford, both of whom were descended from "a long line of Yankee stock". Nehemiah Curtis Sanford was a direct descendant through his mother of Thomas Welles, the first colonial governor of Connecticut. He was also an influential citizen, having served in the Connecticut State Senate.
- 1829 - 1836 Henry's early education was by private tutors.
- 1836 Sanford family moved to Derby, Connecticut. Here the elder Sanford organized, in partnership with his brother-in-law, Edward N. Shelton, the Shelton Tack Company.
- 1837, May-July Henry made a trip west to Michigan, primarily to look over his father's land holdings.
- 1837, September Entered the Episcopal Academy at Cheshire, Connecticut.
- 1839 Graduated from Episcopal Academy. Entered Washington College (now Trinity College) in Hartford, Connecticut. Here "he distinguished himself by his scholastic attainments."
- 1840, December While a member of the Sophomore Class in good standing, an asthmatic condition caused his eyes to deteriorate to the point that he was forced to give up his studies and take a recommended sea voyage.
- 1841, August Sailed for Europe.
- 1842, August Made trip from Boston to Smyrna. Visited Constantinople, Malta, the Alps, and other places of interest.
- 1843, April Returned to the United States.
- 1844, July-Sept Made trip to Michigan.
- 1845, March-May Toured England.
- 1846, June-July Made western trip.
- 1847 Made Secretary of the American Legation at St. Petersburg.
- 1848 Made Acting Secretary of the American Legation at Frankfort, Germany, under the direction of Andrew Jackson Donelson, Minister.

- 1848, October Attended Heidelberg and was tutored by Dr. Levita.
- 1849, April Took examination and was awarded the degree of Doctor of Laws cum laude from the University of Heidelberg.
- 1849, June Returned to the United States and made a three-week trip to Michigan.
- 1849, October Appointed Secretary of the American Legation at Paris, France, by President Zachary Taylor.
- 1850-1853 Arranged the first postal convention between France and the United States and was influential in forming the international postal agreement between the two countries. Also made a voluminous report on the French internal administration which was published by Congress as an authoritative report on the French government. In addition produced a scholarly document, "The Penal Codes of Europe" which was included in President Pierce's 1953 Report to Congress, and was later used by law schools in the United States in their work on criminal codes.
- 1853 Made Charge d'affaires at Paris.
- 1854 Resigned his diplomatic post in Paris and returned to the United States.
- 1855, January Took charge of the "Aves Island Case" for his uncle, Philo S. Shelton of Boston.
- 1857-1860 Made trips to Central and South America on behalf of United States business interests in the Latin American countries of Colombia, Venezuela, Panama, and Honduras.
- 1859 Conducted the negotiations for the Venezuelan Convention which decided the "Aves Island Case" but the settlement did not take place for many years.
- 1860 Efforts made to save the Union. Made a trip to Springfield to see Lincoln.
- 1861, March Appointed by President Lincoln as United States Minister to Belgium. This was Lincoln's first diplomatic appointment.
- 1861-1869 Maintained the post of Minister to Belgium and formed warm personal friendships with Leopold I and II. Served as fiscal agent for the United States and supervised its secret service during the war. He negotiated and signed the treaties of the Scheldt, a convention summoned to deal with commerce, navigation, naturalization, and trademarks. He made numerous reports to the United States government on such subjects as "The Revenue System of Belgium," "The Belgium Excise Laws," "The Courts of Audit and Accounts, the Bankruptcy Laws," and others. He devoted much time and money to the promotion of the cause of the Union.

- 1864, September Married Gertrude Ellen DuPuy, descendant of a prominent French family who had settled in Pennsylvania. Her mother died when she was quite young and Gertrude had spent most of her life in Europe with relatives. There were seven children — two sons and five daughters.
- 1869 Purchased Oakley sugar-plantation in Louisiana.
- 1870 Purchased "Sanford Grant" containing twenty—three square miles, in South Central Florida.
- 1872 Started the town of Sanford, "the Gate City to South Florida" and planted an orange grove of one hundred acres at St. Gertrude, west of the village which bore his name.
- 1873 Moved his orange grove to "Belair" nearer Sanford.
- 1875 Built two large hotels—the Sanford House and the Monroe House—and the Moyle Store. Sanford was founded as the first "dry" town in Florida.
- 1876 Wrote a highly publicized letter to Thurlow Weed of New York in which he put forth a Southern viewpoint of the political implications of the coming elections. Tried to establish the Republican Party in Florida on white rather than Negro representation.
- 1876 Delegate of the American Geographical Society to a conference called by King Leopold II of Belgium to organize the African International Association with the purpose of opening up equatorial Africa to civilizing influences. Made a member of the Executive Committee.
- 1877 Created a Grand Officer of the Order of Leopold.
- 1878-1880 Beset with labor difficulties on his large tract of land he brought one hundred adult immigrants from Sweden to Florida where they worked for him a year for their passage. The Swedes founded the town of New Upsala.
- 1878-1882 Worked for the establishment of stations along the Congo for civilizing purposes.
- 1880 Organized the Florida Land and Colonization Society of which he became the president and the largest stockholder.
- 1880 General and Mrs. Ulysses S. Grant visited Sanford to turn the first sod for the new South Florida railroad.
- 1881 Florida Land and Colonization Society brought seventy-five more Swedish immigrants to Sanford.

- 1884 President Chester Arthur visited Sanford at his Florida home for three days.
- 1884 Tried unsuccessfully to get Congressional Agricultural Committee to establish an experiment station in Florida. Started his “Tropical Garden” near Sanford and supervised remarkable experiments in plant and fruit growth.
- 1884, November Stanley and Sanford spent the winter in Berlin working with United States Minister, John A. Kasson to make secure with European powers certain concessions. The Independent State of the Congo was a result of their efforts.
- 1886, January A great freeze destroyed much of the “Tropical Garden” in Florida and Sanford lost interest in it.
- 1886 Organized at Brussels and dispatched to the Congo and its tributaries the Sanford Exploring Expedition for the purpose of scientific and commercial discovery and for the purpose of opening up of an interior trade. His steamboats – “Florida” and “New York” – were the first commercial steamers to penetrate the waters of the upper Congo.
- 1888 Failure to enlist American capital in the Congo enterprise caused the liquidation of the Sanford Exploring Expedition and the establishment of the Belgian Anonymous Society which was the first commercial company to enter into regular operation on the Upper Congo.
- 1890 Attended the Anti-Slavery Conference at Brussels as Plenipotentiary and Envoy Extraordinary for the United States. He worked for the abolition of the liquor traffic and the slave trade in the Congo.
- 1891, May 21 Henry S. Sanford died.
- 1901, June 1 Mrs. H. S. Sanford died.
